1. STAMPS

Issue of a new design with a bust of King Alfonso XIII as a youth and the legend “CUBA 1898 y 99” in the cartouche at the top. Known to philatelists as the “Boy King” issue, it is also known as the “Autonomia” (Autonomy) issue as it appeared at the time when the Spanish government, in an attempt to end the Cuban War of Independence, issued a Royal decree granting an autonomous government to Cuba. The effort failed, and this is the last issue which circulated in Cuba under Spanish Dominion.

The dies were engraved by Bartolome Maura and the issue typographed on thick, very white, wove paper in sheets of 200 arranged in two panes of 100 (10 x 10) separated by a gutter. The printing was of very poor quality and the perforations are very inaccurate. On genuine stamps, the name of the engraver, Maura appears in the shading under the right of the bust of King Alfonso.

Because of the brief time of usage, barely a year, postally used copies of the higher values of this issue are very rare. Forgeries of this issue are dangerous and extreme caution should be exercised when obtaining the rarer values.
